

James D. Lamm
Gray Plant Mooty
Minneapolis, Minnesota

Jim Lamm is a third-generation Minnesota estate planning attorney and a principal in Gray Plant Mooty's Trust, Estate & Charitable Planning group. He focuses his practice on estate planning, family business succession planning, probate and trust administration, and charitable giving. Jim is a frequent lecturer on advanced estate planning, tax, and business succession planning topics.

Jim is a Fellow in the American College of Trust and Estate Counsel (ACTEC) and a member of ACTEC's Technology in the Practice Committee. He is an adjunct professor at the University of Minnesota Law School teaching an Estate Planning and Drafting Seminar, and he is listed in Best Lawyers in America. Jim graduated from the University of Minnesota Law School cum laude and received his undergraduate degree in business from St. John's University (Minnesota) summa cum laude with all-college honors and distinction. He is admitted to practice law in Minnesota, North Dakota, and South Dakota.

Jim blends a strong background in technology and computers with his estate planning practice. He took his first computer programming class in 1982, he's taught people how to use and how to program computers, and he's had a computer consulting business. Jim speaks from coast to coast about planning for incapacity and death for a client's passwords, online accounts, and digital property. He writes the DigitalPassing.com blog, and he has been interviewed and quoted on this topic by The Wall Street Journal, Forbes magazine, Intellectual Property Magazine, InvestmentNews, MSNBC, Reuters, public radio, and others.
